

ASSOCIATION FOR INFANT MENTAL HEALTH (NORTHERN IRELAND)

“The History of the Troubles According to Our Babies”

Exploring and Addressing the Intergenerational Impact of the NI Conflict on Parents, Infants and Families

A conference by AIMH (NI)

Tuesday 7th June 2016, 9.00am – 4.30pm

Riddel Hall, 185 Stranmillis Road, Belfast BT9 5EE

This conference is for anyone working in the field of family support, policy makers, social workers and practitioners.

The focus of this year's Annual Conference is on exploring and addressing the issues of intergenerational trauma from the NI conflict and how this continues to impact on families, young children and babies. Speakers will address current thinking from research and policy and how this impacts on practice and service delivery for families throughout Northern Ireland.

Participants will have the opportunity to discuss and consider the challenges of working with these real life issues in their practice and relevance to early year's policy/service developments. This will be facilitated through discussions and a question and answer session with the panel. The panel will be made up of speakers who will share their experience and expertise when working with families, young children and babies. Practitioners will have the opportunity to explore challenges and possible solutions to support them in their role when working with families in the community.

Please send completed Registration Forms to E: admin@surestartsb.org by Monday 23rd May.

* The AIMH (NI) AGM will be held during the conference. Membership for all members of AIMH (NI) is now due for renewal – this costs £20 and will include a limited number of free delegate places to the conference if these are in a block booking. Conference fee for non-members is £50 per person. Allocation of free places will be by email week beginning 30/5/16.

For those wishing to renew their membership or to become a member of AIMH (NI) (as an individual or organisation) please email admin@surestartsb.org
